

From the Chair's Desk

Hello colleagues:

Happy end-of-semester to you! I don't know about you, but I am looking forward to many conferences this summer, the RSS annual meeting in Toronto, in particular. Here are a couple of updates regarding that event:

1. Student awards: We have 3 student awards to give out this year and only 2 applications so far. Information is below. Please encourage your students to apply!
2. NRRIG award of merit: We also have an award of merit to give to one of our many deserving members! Please see below for the details needed to nominate someone. We did not give out the award last year, so it would be great to give it to honor someone this year,
3. Plenary on class: Our current RSS president Leif Jensen is organizing a plenary session on class where each RIG will have a representative briefly speak on how the past and current research of their RIG members has focused on class. Dr. Rebecca Schewe has volunteered to represent us, but we need your help! We would appreciate it if you emailed us examples of work you or others have done related to class and natural resources (jessica.schad@sdstate.edu and rlschewe@maxwell.syr.edu). We will send out another call for input, but please start thinking about how you might contribute.
4. NRRIG organized sessions: We have two exciting NRRIG organized sessions planned for the meeting:
 - a. First, join us for the NRRIG Round Table Session "Research and Praxis of Public/Community Engagement around Natural Resource Issues", and learn from and share ideas with several scholars and practitioners with a track record of success with in public engagement around natural resource issues. This is scheduled for 3:30-4:45 on Monday, August 8th.

- b. Second, join several presenters in the NRRIG “Extractive and Energy Industries, Inequalities, and Social Responses” session. This will be held on Tuesday, August 9th from 11:00-12:15.
- 5. NRRIG business meeting: Please mark your calendars to join us for our annual business meeting on Monday, August 8th from 5:00-5:45 p.m.
- 6. Field trip: Because of plethora of other events organized by RSS and IRSA already planned, we have decided NOT to do our own field trip this year. Please see below for a list of other fun things going on at the RSS and IRSA meetings.

Finally, it has been great serving as your chair this year. Thank you for the opportunity! We will be stepping up soon and we will need someone just as great to fill his shoes. If you are interested, make sure to attend our RIG meeting in Toronto.

RSS Annual Meeting Information

The 79th Rural Sociological Society Annual Meeting in Toronto is August 7-10. Visit the website <http://www.ruralsociology.us/> for important travel tips, to register, for the program, and accommodation information. Early Bird Registration ends June 5th!

Professional Development Workshops in Toronto (both on Sunday, August 7th):

W1. Innovative Research Methods for Rural Sociologists

9:00am to Noon

A Workshop Organized by Brian Thiede, Louisiana State University

Registration fee $50.00 (USD)

This workshop will provide participants with insight into a set of innovative research methods useful for rural sociologists. Proposed topics to be covered include spatial statistics/GIS and computer-based qualitative data analysis. Leading practitioners of these methods will provide an overview of each approach and demonstrate potential applications.

Optional Lunch for Participants in the Methods Workshops

Fee $25.00 (USD)

W2. How Survey Methods are Changing

1:00pm to 4:00pm

Workshop by Don Dillman, Washington State University

Registration fee $50.00 (USD)

Don Dillman will present a half-day workshop on new ways of conducting sample surveys. The emphasis will be on household surveys, using postal address-based sampling methods in a way that incorporates a “push” to respond over the web with a paper questionnaire follow-up. Much of Dillman’s research during the past decade has been on developing and testing the use of such methods. The need for these methods stems in part from the rapid decline in adequacy of telephone survey methods combined with an inability to rely on email-only contact methods to seek a web response because of coverage and response problems. His discussion of data collection methods builds upon the 4th edition of his book, Internet, Phone, Mail and Mixed-mode Surveys: The Tailored Design Method (Dillman, Smyth, and Christian, 2014), which is a 70% revision of the 3rd edition

NRRIG 2016 Awards

NRRIG Annual Award of Merit

Each year, the Award of Merit is presented to recognize exceptional contributions to the sociology of natural resources. The award may be given in recognition of a collective body of work, or in recognition of a particularly significant single piece of work. We aim for the recipient to have one or more of the following qualifications: outstanding research and scholarship; outstanding applied sociological work, such as work with a natural resources agency, organization, partnership, or other contributions to the NRRIG or sociology of natural resources. Nominees are not required to be present or past members of the NRRIG.

To nominate someone please submit 1) up to three letters of nomination that clearly explain the reasons for considering the nomination and the nominee’s contribution to the sociology of natural resources, as well as 2) a current copy of the nominee's CV. Additional supporting materials may be sent, but are not required. Nomination materials must be submitted to the NRRIG chair, Jessica Ulrich-Schad at jessica.schad@sdstate.edu by July 1, 2016.

William R. Freudenburg Graduate Student Paper Award

The Natural Resources Research Interest Group (NRRIG) of the Rural Sociological Society is soliciting submissions for a graduate student paper award in the area environmental or natural resources social science to honor William R. Freudenburg. The paper should be related to the broad interests of the NRRIG. Current graduate students and recent graduates (who receive their degrees no earlier than May 2015) may apply. Coauthored papers are acceptable as long as all of the authors were students at the time the paper was written and submitted. The recipient will receive a monetary prize of at least $100 (final budget TBD) that will help to defray part of the cost of registering for and attending the 2016 RSS Annual Meeting in Toronto, Canada (August 7-10, 2016). The recipient will also be recognized at the NRRIG business meeting. There is a two-step process for submission: 1) Submit an abstract to present the paper at the 2016 meeting; 2) Send an electronic copy of the full paper with contact information to the NRRIG chair (Jessica Ulrich-Schad: jessica.schad@sdstate.edu) by June 1, 2016. The paper submission should not exceed 35 double-spaced pages (including all tables, graphs, and references) in a standard font (12 point). The winner will be selected by a committee of NRRIG members and notified by July 1, 2016.

Papers will be evaluated using the following criteria:

1. Advancement of knowledge.
2. Significance of the topic for the NRRG of the Rural Sociological Society.

3. Quality and implementation of the research, theory, and argument (as applicable).
4. Analysis and interpretation of the findings (if applicable).
5. Clarity and organization of the writing. (Criteria listed in order of importance/weight)

NRRIG Graduate Student Poster Award

The Natural Resources Research Interest Group (NRRIG) of the Rural Sociological Society is soliciting submissions for a poster award in the area environmental or natural resources social science. The poster should be in the area environmental or natural resources social science. Current graduate students and recent graduates (who receive their degrees no earlier than May 2015) may apply. Coauthored posters are acceptable as long as all of the authors were students at the time the paper was written and submitted. The recipient will receive a monetary prize of $50 that will help to defray part of the cost of registering for and attending the 2016 RSS Annual Meeting in Toronto, Canada (August 7-10, 2016). There is a two-step process for submission: 1) Submit an abstract to present the poster at the 2016 meeting; 2) Send an email to the NRRIG chair (Jessica Ulrich-Schad: jessica.schad@sdstate.edu) by August 1, 2016, informing us of your participation in the poster session in the conference. Posters will be judged by a committee of NRRIG members at the meeting during the scheduled poster session (TBD) and an announcement of the winner will be made shortly after.

NRRIG Graduate Student Travel Scholarship

Please encourage graduate students to apply for the Natural Resources Research Interest Group (NRRIG) Graduate Student Travel Scholarship. The recipient will be reimbursed for the student (member) registration cost for the RSS annual meeting ($125). There is a two-step process for submission: 1) Submit an abstract to present a presentation or poster in the area environmental or natural resources social science at the 2016 meeting; 2) Send an email to the NRRIG chair (Jessica Ulrich-Schad: jessica.schad@sdstate.edu) by June 1, 2016, documenting your estimated travel costs and other sources of travel funding. The award will be based on need and contributions to the interests of the NRRIG. The winner will be selected by a committee of NRRIG members and notified by July 1, 2016.

Upcoming Meetings

Association for Environmental Studies and Sciences (AESS)

June 8-11, 2016 in Washington DC <https://aessonline.org/2016-conference/>

The theme for the conference is “Science, Empathy, Collaboration and Sustainability.” The conference theme will allow AESS to showcase its interdisciplinary strengths on this vitally important topic, including such issues as problem-solving through multi-disciplinary data and analysis, multiple perspectives, team building and collaborations, and future-oriented teaching across disciplines. In addition, the theme and location of the conference offer a chance to consider multi-scale policy making at local, city, state, regional, national and international levels. Proposers are encouraged to take advantage of the DC location and include NGOs, government agencies, international institutions as well as local governments and organizations in your proposed session.

International Symposium on Society and Resource Management (ISSRM)
June 22-26, 2016 in Houghton, Michigan, USA

Houghton is located on Lake Superior's Keweenaw Peninsula in the Upper Peninsula of the state of Michigan. This area is known for its extensive shorelines, pristine beaches, vast forests and complex geology. Outdoor recreation opportunities abound such as hiking, mountain biking, paddling and rock hounding. The area's mining legacy has left profound footprints from the beautiful historic sandstone buildings to the self-reliant local mixture of cultures. The conference theme is Transitioning: Toward Sustainable Relationships in a Different World. More info here: http://www.iasnr.org/?page_id=1059

The 2016 Joint International Conference: Community Development Society & the International Association for Community Development
July 23-27, 2016 • Twin Cities, MN USA

Sustaining Community Change: Building Local Capacity To Sustain Development Initiatives. The 2016 Community Development Society/International Association for Community Development conference offers a platform for dialogue about community development with an emphasis on sustaining community change. We invite you to join us July 23-27, 2016 in Bloomington and the surrounding Twin Cities (Minneapolis/St. Paul) Metro area of Minnesota with its rich community development culture. Come to Minnesota to share your research on, learning in, and experience with community change, sustainable development, and the community development principles of good practice. The venue provides opportunities for learning, scholarship and spirited and lively exchanges about community development practice, change, and sustainability. Won't you join us in Minnesota? Questions? Contact Chris Marko by email at CMarko@rcac.org.
